Problemy realizacji regionalnych standardów ochrony praw człowieka w praktyce ustrojowej państw [Problems of Implementing Regional Standards of Human Rights Protection in the Political Practice of States], Torun, 2016, 648 p., ISBN: 978-83-

8019-141-9.

The book "Problems of implementing regional standards for the protection of human rights in the political practice of states" contains a rich legal and comparative material, ways of the implementation of regional standards in Poland, Russian Federation, Ukraine, Slovakia, Lithuania and Moldova. The deliberations concern standards developed within the Council of Europe system and in particular created by the European Court of Human Rights under the European Convention on Human Rights. It is also important to implement EU standards, referring to the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union and to the case law of the Court of Justice of the European Union. The book show how these standards affect the shape of national legislation in sensitive areas such as past settlements, euthanasia, sexual orientation discrimination and Muslim women's rights in Europe. The current dimension is concerned with the protection of human rights in the Russian-Ukrainian conflict.

A wide range of topical scientific problems in the field of law, economics, education and regional studies is also considered in the book. It is noted, that protection of human rights and entrepreneurship should be improved and reformed both in the countries of the European Union and neighboring countries. The experience of many countries was examined and analyzed the regional features of human rights and the possibility of influencing the legal regional systems in modern conditions. The topics that are raised have a programmatic impact on the continued existence of the legal system of the European community about the surrounding countries.

The book will be useful for scientists and students of law universities and regional studies.

Międzynarodowe standardy ochrony praw człowieka a doświadczenia Polski [International Standards for the Protection of Human Rights and Polish Experience], Torun, 2016, 736 p., ISBN: 978-83-8019-225-6.

The book "International Standards for the Protection of Human Rights and Polish Experience" includes not only the axiology of the Polish system for the protection of rights and freedoms (including the analysis of changes in the system of amendments to the Constitution of the Republic of Poland), but also the impact on this system of international human rights standards.

The book presents:

- political rights and freedoms (including the right to associate, electoral rights, the right to file petitions);
- legal protection of life and health (including the right to abortion, responsibility for medical errors, the rights of terminally ill patients);
- protection of the rights of persons participating in proceedings in public bodies (including liability for damage caused by the issuance of a normative act, human rights and police activities);
- the right to a court and the protection of the rights of prisoners and detainees (for example, legal protection and police preventive arrest, use of equipment in prisons and places of detention) and socio-economic rights (for example, proportionality check while restricting property rights).

It is noted, that standards for the protection of human rights have a direct impact on the country's economic and social development. The experience of the Republic of Poland is particularly important as one of the countries of the European Union with a developing economy.

The book will be useful for scientists and students of law and economic universities.
